Rural Women in Food Systems

Since its foundation, ACWW has concerned itself with the sharing of sustainable agricultural practices and planning for a sustainable future. At the 1936 Triennial Conference in Washington, one of the speakers quoted Benjamin Kidd:

“ Women’s eyes always look to the future because they are the mothers of the next generation. If women would participate more fully and more universally in world affairs, we would plan for the future more than we do now. ”

ACWW knows that Rural Women are uniquely positioned to address the issues of Food Sovereignty and Food Security, and indeed, already have the skills and knowledge to do so. Collaboration allows us to harness these skills and knowledge and share with others until every community, every family, and every person has access to food.
